Climate Solutions are gendered, feminist inclusive and diverse

Climate solutions are lead by indigenous knowledge and peoples-
and matrifocal
leadership – a complete reversal of 10,000 years.

No voice or solution is left behind, through re-engaging with observers and Non-Party Stakeholders in a unity of purpose.

A close-up photograph of a pencil lying diagonally across a sheet of graph paper. The pencil is sharpened and has some eraser residue. The graph paper has a grid pattern and some faint text and numbers, including '100', '50', '193', and '198'.

The background of the entire image is a 3D-rendered grid of light blue squares. On top of this grid, various numbers from 0 to 9 are scattered across the surface. Each number is rendered in a white, three-dimensional font that appears to be standing upright, creating a sense of depth and perspective. The numbers are of varying sizes and are positioned at different angles, giving the impression of a dynamic, data-driven environment.

Why are more than 130 million girls out of school?
Secondary education for girls can transform communities, countries and our world. It is an investment in economic growth, a healthier workforce, lasting peace and the future of our planet.
